Dr Au Eong was jogging at Singapore Botanic Gardens on 17 March 2018 (Saturday) morning.

He came across a collapsed jogger, there were bystanders around him massaging his hands and stuffing something to open his mouth. It was possible that the casualty displayed convulsion earlier.

Dr Au Eong took control of the situation. Realising that the casualty suffered cardiac arrest, he started CPR immediately.

After a few minutes, 3 more bystanders came to help with CPR, and they delivered 1 shock with the AED.

They had achieved return of spontaneous circulation before the arrival of the ambulance.

The collapsed jogger recovered well and was discharged from hospital.

Thank you
Dr Au Eong!
